ANDREW DEITZ JOINS TRILOGY SEARCH AS DIRECTOR

Burlingame, Calif. (April 11, 2011) – Retained executive search firm Trilogy Search Non+Profit is pleased to announce that Andrew Deitz has joined the firm as a Director. Deitz will focus on the clean technology and health care services sectors. Previously, he consulted for Symphony Technology Group.

In his role as an executive recruiter and talent acquisition expert, Andrew works closely with organizations to identify strategic staffing needs and build thriving executive management teams.

“We’re extremely pleased to have Andrew join our firm,” said Trilogy’s Managing Director Chuck Pappalardo. “He has a long and successful history of discovering and attracting transformational leaders.”

Andrew has 15 years experience in working with CEOs and executives of fast-growing portfolio companies funded by influential venture capital and LBO firms such as Bessemer Venture Partners, Accel Partners, and Symphony Technology Group.

He was instrumental in launching human capital services for a newly-created private equity fund, and led business development efforts for the start-up phase of a diversified recruiting company.

Deitz began his career as an environmental research scientist at Oak Ridge National Laboratories. He was a founding VP at Climate Earth and is an active member with e2 (e2.org), which helps to shape energy policies that promote economic growth. He is also an urban farmer.
